Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a measuring apparatus, a measuring method, a program, and a program product. More particularly, the present invention relates to a measuring apparatus that is capable of measuring the remaining amount of a reagent, a measuring method, a program, and a program product. 2. Description of the Related Art In an operation of a test for detecting a predetermined object (a target substance) by using a testing reagent such as a test paper, a measuring apparatus is generally used for quantifying an amount of the testing reagent that has been consumed, i.e., the remaining amount of the testing reagent. In such an apparatus, the remaining amount of the testing reagent is generally calculated as a ratio of a quantity of the testing reagent before the testing reagent is used up to a quantity of the testing reagent after the testing reagent is used up. A testing apparatus disclosed in Japanese Unexamined Patent Application Publication No. 2005-270277 has an additional measuring unit that is capable of calculating the remaining amount of the testing reagent using the ratio of the quantity of the testing reagent before the testing reagent is used up to the quantity of the testing reagent after the testing reagent is used up. 82157476af
